

THE BOURBON NEWS

We've pretty girls, and ugly girls,
And some that are very sweet,
But the girl who always smiles at you,
Is the girl you love to meet.

FOUND.—A stray pig. Owner call at this office for particulars. (27dec1)

CORN WANTED.—Highest market price. E. F. SPEARS & SONS.

A FULL line of dress suits and protectors. PARKER & JAMES.

GRANT OWSELEY, of this city, has been assisting J. E. Sellers, at the Bluegrass Grocery in Carlisle.

The Lexington Elks celebrated Christmas day by keeping open house. Refreshments were served.

The Fair Store did a phenomenally large business preceding Christmas day. The store was crowded with customers at all times. They employed forty-five clerks.

At Lexington, Albert Leggett, a carpenter, had his left eye blown out and his left hand badly mangled by a giant firecracker Christmas day. Leggett thought the firecracker had gone out. It exploded in his hand.

LOST.—December 23, white setter dog, black ears and black stripes on both hind legs. Answers to name of "Dock." Had a steel collar on. Liberal reward for return to WALLACE STEELE, Paris, Ky.

The Elks' lodge, of Winchester, distributed $200 worth of needful and substantial Christmas presents among the poor children of that city, who otherwise would have had a dreary Christmas.

The dwelling and contents of Harry Blackburn a well-known and respected negro of Ruckerville, were destroyed by fire on Tuesday night. Any contribution of furniture, clothing, etc., will be called for by notifying THE BOURBON NEWS.

The Christmas business done at the local post-office this year broke all records in the transmission of Christmas mail matter and packages. The Express company also did a large business, necessitating the employment of extra help.

THERE were more than the usual number of Christmas drunks on our streets this year. When they get through with their troubles in police court, they will probably come to the conclusion that it is not altogether the best way to celebrate.

ON Christmas Eve night parties were detected stealing turkeys and chickens from the farm of Mr. James E. Clay, on the Winchester pike. A tenant on Mr. Clay's place shot at the thieves, and thinks he wounded one of them. They escaped with eight turkeys and some chickens.

It seems to be a hard matter to hold S. L. Meyers, the Lexington insurance man, who disappeared. He has been located several times and captured, but each time he escaped. He was a prominent member of the Red Men's lodge, who are interesting themselves in his welfare.

The Deering Camp ground Company organized last Friday by selecting the following officers: T. A. Dorsey, President; I. B. Ross, Secretary; E. O. Dorsey, Treasurer; Jas. McClure, Manager; W. A. Dorsey, Assistant Manager; T. A. Dorsey, Jas. McClure, R. M. Parks, W. I. Dorsey, H. M. Taylor, Directors.

WHILE the late snow was on the ground, the local nimrods have been knocking game right and left, and "Bob White" and "Molly Cotton Tail" have suffered at the hands of the hunters. The bird law goes into effect again on the first day of January, and the fun will all be over until next November.

The firm of Clark & Kenney, in this city, will dissolve partnership on January 1st, Mr. Walter Kenney retiring. Mr. Kenney has sold his interest in the business to Mr. George N. Kohlhaas, of Winchester, who comes highly recommended. Mr. Kohlhaas will not move his family here until spring.

AN exchange boasts of Montgomery Lodge of Odd Fellows at Harrodsburg, which was organized in 1844, as having never missed a regular weekly meeting since that time. Bourbon Lodge, No. 23, I. O. O. F., of this city has not got a bad record itself. It was instituted Nov. 29, 1844, with James T. Davis, Edw. Myall, W. W. Fothergill, John V. Lovely and Sam'l Allison, as charter members. Edw. Myall died in September 1901 at San Francisco. Jas. T. Davis was elected treasurer on the first meeting night and gave his receipt for money paid to him and there is now in the lodge room the receipt for that night and every meeting night since. Mr. Davis has been continually treasurer since the organization of the lodge except the one year he passed through the office of Noble and Vice Grand. He has not, in 57 years, missed but twelve meeting nights, at which time he was either a delegate to the grand lodge or kept away by sickness. Bourbon lodge has passed through three wars and has never failed to hold a meeting on their regular meeting night (Monday.)

The Christian and Methodist church Sunday schools had Christmas trees on Tuesday night and made glad the hearts of the scholars with presents and bonbons.

The Catholic church had their usual Christmas service, which was most beautiful and appropriate. The music was very fine.

The Sunday school in connection with the Baptist church had a Christmas tree on Wednesday night which was much enjoyed. The musical features were excellent.

The scholars of the Second Presbyterian church will be presented with presents on next Sunday morning.

The Sunday School of the First Presbyterian church will hold a social tonight.

Amusements.

RETURN OF "HELLO BILL."

Lovers of all that is clean, pure and wholesome in farcical comedy will welcome the advent at the Grand next Monday of Willis Maxwell Goodhue's joyful oddity "Hello Bill" which has now been styled by the press of the country a comedy classic. Entirely rich in plot and motive, absolutely clean in treatment, Mr. Goodhue's merry play stands a living example that it is not necessary to be vulgar to be exorcisingly funny and its enormous financial success is also evidence that cleanly farces are more desired by the American public than the vicious Parisian importations which have of late given a baneful tone to the American comedy stage. The story of "Hello Bill" how William Fuller who didn't go to war got all that was coming to the William Fuller who did, is familiar to theatre goers, and is sufficient to say that the company this season is said to be better than ever, and the merry comedy presented on the scale of excellence it has heretofore known.

"Human Hearts," one of the prettiest plays ever written, and presented by a company of unusual strength, will be the attraction at the Grand next Thursday night.

Lillian Russell received a rare and beautiful Christmas gift. The gift, made by Tiffany, consisted of a necklace of twenty-four matchless pearls, which cost, it is rumored, nearly $25,000.

The members of the Bronson Theatre company, which played here last week, presented their manager, Mr. Bronson, with an elegant Elk charm for a Christmas present. It was gotten up in the way of a special design by A. J. Winters & Co., and was very handsome.

Matrimonial.

Mr. Elton Oliver Sparks, of Paris, and Miss Nancy Hardman, of Wades' Mill, Clark County, were married at the Methodist parsonage, near the latter place, Christmas day, by Rev. Geo. Froh.

Walter B. Leavings, aged thirty-one years, of Cincinnati, and Miss Blanche Kelly, of Hartwell, were married at Maysville, Christmas day. Miss Kelly gave her age as twenty-one years, but a relative says she is only eighteen. Miss Kelly was visiting in Maysville, and is a prepossessing young lady.

From the calm determination with which Miss Josephine Holman, of Indianapolis, has started east to wed Inventor Marconi—who says he will not be married in the near future—it is to be hoped that the young man has had the prudence to conduct his courting by means of the wireless as well as letterless system, or that he has got his interest in the trans-Atlantic telegraph fixed so as to be execution proof.

At noon Wednesday, at the home of Mrs. Joseph Clark, in Lexington, the wedding of Miss Mamie Clark, of that city, and Dr. John Williams Coe, of New York City, was celebrated, the Rev. F. C. Pillsbury officiating. The bride comes from one of Lexington's first families, and is the daughter of the late Joseph Clark, a wealthy retired wholesale grocer. The bridegroom is a successful physician in New York, and is from one of the old families of Meriden, Conn. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Ruth Clark, and her brother, Mr. Edward Clark, gave her away. The best man was Mr. Harry Wilcox, of New York. As the wedding party entered Miss Mabel Coe, a sister of the bridegroom, sang the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin."

At the suggestion of Elder Z. T. Sweeney, the Tabernacle Christian Sunday-school at Columbus, Ind., had a novel plan of celebrating the first Christmas of the Twentieth century. Each child was asked to write a message to the Sunday school, as it will be 100 years hence. All the messages will be delivered to the assistant superintendent, and hermetically sealed in a strong copper box, which will be passed from one superintendent to another, until the first Christmas in the year 2000, then to be opened and read to the Sunday-school.
